ACHIEVING GLOBAL HEALTH EQUITY THROUGH EDUCATION

Physicians for Peace closes chronic gaps in healthcare access worldwide using a simple, sustainable and effective model that has become our motto:
teach one. heal many.

Physicians for Peace recruits volunteer doctors, nurses, and therapists to teach specialized skills and knowledge to healthcare providers in parts of the world where high-level surgical education is difficult or impossible to access.

We rely on in-country partnerships—medical facilities and professionals who align with our model—to help local healthcare providers achieve greater expertise for their surgical patients, from pre-op to rehabilitation.

Our long-term goal is to identify outstanding trainees who want to become trainers. Physicians for Peace continues to support them as they teach peers in their own communities, countries, and regions.

This is a cost-effective, renewable way to achieve lasting health equity where it's needed the most.

OUR CORE VALUES

Accountability • Integrity • Respect
Impact • Excellence • Relevance

OUR MISSION

The mission of Physicians for Peace is to educate and empower local providers of surgical care, to alleviate suffering and transform lives in under-resourced communities around the world.

OUR VISION

We envision a more just and equitable world where access to life-saving and life-restoring surgical care is available to all people everywhere, so they can go on to live healthy and meaningful lives.

Building Blocks for Bold Growth

Physicians for Peace is focused on strengthening our operational integrity—processes that have proven successful in achieving healthcare equity for populations in need.

We are prioritizing and securing dedicated funding for five core activities.

Innovate, Expand, and Further Develop Hybrid Education

An in-person and virtual approach to training is effective in both cost and delivery. To produce the highest positive measurable outcomes, we are focusing on:

- Building successes in ongoing hybrid training;
- Optimizing the benefits of empowering in-country staff;
- Upgrading technological infrastructure to advance sustainability, equity, and training potential.

Evolve Systems to Track, Measure, and Communicate Impact

Physicians for Peace plans to invest in more sophisticated data banks, collections, and analysis to better understand and document patient outcomes.

We are pursuing tech grants, donations, and tech-based partners.

Recruit & Retain More Volunteer Medical Educators

Volunteer doctors, nurses and therapists fuel the "teach one, heal many" model of Physicians for Peace. We are building out our Volunteer Development Plan to incorporate more volunteer experiences and perspectives.

Our key goals are to:

- Enable medical professionals to work with PFP in new and different ways;
- Understand barriers that potential volunteers may face in participating;
- Engage healthcare workers available for possible expansion of our training.

Advance Multi-Channel Revenue Plan to Strengthen Financial Health

Our newly launched $3 million Vision to Heal campaign runs concurrently with our existing fundraising strategy. It is designed to bridge our annual funding needs, reinforce our financial foundation, and secure future financial integrity.

Evolve Communications and Marketing to Attract & Expand Resources

With the addition of a full-time Communications Director, Physicians for Peace has entered into the next phase of this priority: to level up how we showcase the necessity, value, and impact of our work to the public, while helping to mobilize resources.

This involves evolving the online and real-world visibility of Physicians for Peace, broadening audiences and outlets for our messaging, and widening the spotlight on relationships and successes in our programs.
